The Plantable CSR Gifting Guide

How to turn corporate gifts into a sustainability story your customers, staff and stakeholders actually remember — and plant.

Written by the team at Boxit, Pakistan's first plantable seed-paper manufacturer. We make tree-free, seed-embedded paper and print it into calendars, cards, gift boxes, tags and giveaways for CSR campaigns across Pakistan.

WHY THIS GUIDE

Corporate gifts that end up in a drawer are a wasted CSR budget

Most corporate gifts say very little about your sustainability commitment. A plastic-wrapped diary or a mug is used for a week and forgotten — or worse, thrown away. For a CSR campaign, that is money spent with no lasting story to tell.

Plantable seed paper changes the ending. It is real, biodegradable paper with seeds embedded inside the pulp. It prints, folds and die-cuts like ordinary paper and carries your branding exactly the same way. But when the campaign is over, the recipient plants it in soil, waters it, and it grows into herbs, flowers or vegetables. Your gift becomes a plant on someone's desk — and a photo they share.

What makes it a genuine CSR asset

Tree-free	Made from post-consumer and post-industrial waste paper. No new trees pulped.
Zero-waste ending	The gift is planted, not binned. Nothing goes to landfill.
Visible & shareable	A growing plant is a reminder of your brand that lasts months, not minutes.
Locally made	Manufactured in Pakistan — short lead times, no import delays, supports local.

MAKE IT LAND

Designing a campaign that actually gets planted

A plantable gift only tells your story if the recipient plants it. Four things decide whether that happens:

1. Message

Say why it's plantable, in one line, on the item itself. "Plant me — I grow into basil." People act on a clear instruction, not a logo alone.

2. Format

Match the item to the audience. Executives: cards and notebooks. Field campaigns and schools: seed balls. Retail: tags and bags.

3. Call to action

Print a 3-step planting guide on or with every item. If they don't know how, it stays in the drawer.

4. Logistics

Plan for seasonality (some seeds germinate better in certain months), GSM for the format, and lead time for bulk runs.

Quick GSM guide

Format	Suggested GSM	Why
Inserts, toppers	120–150	Light, easy to slip into packaging
Cards, tags	200–250	Holds a fold and feels premium
Business cards	250–300	Stiff enough to hand over
Calendar pages	200–250	Stands on a desk, still plants well
